Resolving Conflict

Say stop.

When someone is coming too close or doing something that may hurt you, say, "Please stop (name behavior)."

Move away.

If someone is too close or is bothering you, move away from them and play somewhere else.

Ask if you can help.

If someone is upset, ask if there is a way you can help. Watch facial expressions and body language to learn how they are feeling.

Solve it together.

If a problem happens while you are playing, see if you can work together to solve it.

Ask for help.

If a problem isn't solved by one of the strategies above, ask a grown-up to help you.
